IO NON MI MARITO PER PROCURA

by Lina Riccobene

(in Italiane - with subtitles)

For Charlie Mangiapani, life in Canada couldn't be better. The 29 year old lives at home with an overbearing mother who still makes his lunch and a father who doesn't quite give him the freedom he seeks. Throw in a buona jobba and it's as if Charlie were given a lifelong prescription for happiness. Unfortunately, for Charlie, the side-effects of being single, nearly 30, and in an intrusive household are more than he had bargained for. With one phone call, Charlie's dreams of marrying a naisa Canadian gherla are tossed away like an old sanguicchio as he is set to be the next Mangiapani to walk into an arranged marriage to a girl from the old country.

What happens when these families and their worlds collide? A comedy of love, life, and linguistics in a courtship that marries Tony and Tina's
